概述
bookmark2025052818064551592624366 "Overly Permissive Non-Privileged Accounts
" "Granting special domain privileges to unprivileged accounts can lead to several risks. First, it increases the attack surface because these accounts can misuse sensitive data or configurations. If compromised, they provide an avenue for attackers to further exploit the system. In addition, a larger attack surface makes the environment less auditable and accountable, resulting in a less manageable environment.
" "Conduct a thorough review of user permissions and access rights for all non-admin users.
Implement stricter access controls to ensure only authorized personnel have special permissions on computer objects.
